Brakeman Couldn't Control It.

New York, Sept. 30.—A train of four cars on the Long Island Railroad was wrecked sherily before 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the Sea Side station at Rockaway Beach. The train left Long Island City at 1.50 o'clock for Rockaway Beach. As the train approached the Sea Side station inc engine was uncoupled and side tracked to the water pump to take water, and the train was allowed to run into the station without the locomotive.

The brakeman could not control his train, as the airbrakes did not work and the forward car crashed into the bumper at the end of the track. The forward car was the smoker and the front platform was smashed and the door wrenched from its hinges.

The car was filled with passengers, who were badly shaken. The only person sustaining any serious injuries was William King, twenty-one years old, of Green Polnt. He had his right foot cut off and foor other toes on his right foot cut off and foor other toes crushed. He was also injured internally and will probably die.

The snoker was badly damaged and it is a wonder that many other persons were not injured or killed.

SOME RADICAL CHANGES FOUR SERVICES WERE HELD

They Will Be Discussed at Triennial Episcopal Convention.

TO MEET IN MINNEAPOLIS

New Constitution and Canons Will Be Submitted and an Important Discussion is Expected-New Washington Diocese to Be Ratifled and Other Church Matters Disposed of

The triennial general convention of the Episcopal Church of America will convene in Minneapolis on Wednesday of this week. This is the supreme legislative body of the church in this country, and is composed of two houses of co-ordinate power, the house of bishops, consisting of all the bishops of the church, and the house of clerical and lay deputies, composed of four clergymen and four laymen from every diocese within the jurisdiction of the body.

At present there are fifty-two dioceses and twelve missionary jurisdictions in America, and seven foreign districts. The cierical delegates from the Maryland diocese who will attend are Rev. J. H. Elliott, S. T. D., of the Church of the Elliott, S. T. D., of the Church of the Ascension, this city; Rev. R. H. McKim, rector of the Church of the Epiphany, and Rev. J. H. Eccteston, D. D., and Rev. J. S. B. Hodges, D. D., both of Pattimore, Lay delegates, Mr. Bancroft Davis, Wash-

In results, this session of the convention will probably be the most important ever held. At the last session, held in Baltimore in 1892, a commission was appointed to draft a new constitution and canons for the church and its report, made public some time age, has created a great deal of discussion and excited much opposition. SOME RADICAL CHANGES.

In character it is quite radical. The first of the changes which the commission rec-ommends affects the organization of the general convention, changing its name to the general synod and providing that the house of bishops shall be railed by an officer, called a primus, elected from among its members, instead of by the oldest its members, instead of by the othest bishop, as at present. It is further-provided that the diocesan representation in the general synod be three of each order, instead of four. It is proposed also not to count the missionary bishops, numbering about twenty, in mak-ing up a quorum, which would make twenty-nine a quorum, and a majority of this number could thus exercise control if the upper house.

The proposed constitution declares the general synod the supreme legislative authority: provides that bishops alone are to sit as a court for the trial of bishops, and the power to interpret doctrines is also Jaken from the general body and lodged with the upper house alone.

The authority of the house of bishops is still further increased by giving to it alone the power to appoint missionary bishops and to send bishops to foreign lands. A new bishop must have the consent of a majority of the upper house, and the body may convene at will for any purpose, except that of enacting laws. Bishops alone are to pass upon the decimal contents of the consent of a majority of the upper house, and the body may convene at will for any purpose, except that of enacting laws. Bishops alone are to pass upon the decimal contents.

The house of bishops is made the court of last appeal. It is also provided that contiguous dioceses be united into provinces the presiding chief bishop of which is to be called a primate.

is to be called a primate.

One article of the new constitution provides that the number of self-supporting parishes and settled pastors in a proposed diocese shall be increased from six to ten.

These are the most important changes proposed by the new constitution, but several of them involve questions that have previously been the cause of bested confirmation. visusly been the cause of heated controversy in church councils, and when their consideration begins at Minneapolis this week it is quite evident that a warm fight for and against certain of them will be in-

The coming session will be of especial in The coming session will be of especial in-terest to the members of the church resid-ing in the Maryland diocese, as the conven-tion will pass upon the proposition so largely favored at the recent session of the diocesan convention in this city looking to the division of the Maryland diocese, the District of Columbia and the lower counties of Mary land to compose the Washington diocese, the Maryland diocese to consist of the rest of the counties in that State and the city

WILL BE APPROVED. Owing to the almost manimity with which this proposition was adopted, there re-mains but little doubt as to the change being authorized by the general convention. In that case Bishop Paret, of this diocese, would probably be allowed to choose between the new dioceses.

If the recommendation of the constitu-If the recommendation of the constitu-tional commission providing for the elec-tion of a primus bishop be adopted, there is a strong probability of Washington being selected as the see city. However, as the primus would be chosen by the general convention, it is said that many Episcopalians in this diocese are not friendly to the proposition that this be made the see city, as it would deprive the Maryland diocese of the privilege of choosing Switzerland's Sympathy for Cuba.

Editor Times: As a rative of Switzerland and an American citizen, I gfory in the privilege of expressing my deepest and most profound sympathy for Cuba's heroic struggle for independence.

By this testimony I only voice the sentiment of every free-born Swiss, to whom I appeal to give utterance in sympathy for bleeding Cuba.

May the little Republic Switzerland, hemmed in by the Alps, "whose vast walls have pinnacled in clouds their snowy scalps," hear the cry of oppressed justice, of ruthless murder and butchery perpetrated upon a brave people, whose only offense is that they are trying to break the shackles of tyramy. Let every loyal native of the Land of Tell join heart and hand with the sister Republic America, in the most fervent demonstration of sympathy for the Cuban patriots.

Oh, for a Cuban Winkelried.

May Cuba's gallant fight for freedom furnish a theme for the poet, painter, and musician until liberated from the dragon grasp of Spain. Yours ainocrely, E. T. ZELINER.

REMOVAŁ SALE ON HIS FATHER'S TESTIMONY

John Carroll Receives a Thirty Deer Sentence For His Behavior.

Threatened His Aged Parent and Has Long Beena Cause of Worry and Sorrow.

A heartrending scene was enacted in the police court before Judge Kimbali this morning when Patrick Carroll, an old man. plained to his honor that it was impossible for him to control his son John, who was always drunk, and when under the influence of whisky was very loud and boisterous and abusive.

John Carroll is about twenty-six years old, with the signs of dissipation all over his face, Saturday night, when he came home in-toxicated, the father's patience having been tried to the utmost. he refused to let him in Sunday morning the boy returned, and rushing into the house demanded money of his father. Mr. Carroli refused to give it to him and went to the rear of the house, followed by the soil. Here young Carroli again demanded money, threatening to strike his father with a long pole he had picked up in the yard.

The poor father then decided to put up with his son's abuse no longer, and the less with the son's abuse no longer, and the less with his son's abuse no longer, and the less with his son's abuse no longer, and the less with his son's abuse no longer, and the less with his son's abuse no longer, and the less with his son's abuse no longer, and the less with his son's abuse no longer, and the less with his son's abuse no longer, and the less with his son's abuse no longer.

The poor father then decided to put up with his son's abuse no longer, and the leaves as turned over to the police. It was evident that Mr. Carroll's heart was almost broken, and that he gave his testimony very reluctantly, every sentence being drawn out by the court.

The brother of the prisoner corroborated the father's testimony, and John took the stand and denied being drank on Saturday night, and said he had asked Sunday for money to go to New York.

San Diego says: Mexican officials at Ensenada have been instructed to take precautions against filibastering expeditions from any port of California and directed against any islands on the coast of Lower California.

It is believed that this order is the result of Consul General Conri's reports from San Francisco to the effect that a vessel is supposed to be fitting there to take possession of Gaudaloupe Island.

An agent of the Mexican government is stationed here, in addition to Consul Lomeli, and he laughs at the idea of taking Gaudeloupe by force or through an alleged title.

"I think it will be found that the filibustering expedition is simply a few fishermen going down after guano," he said. "There are large deposits of guano both on the mainland and islands, and the business has grown to such importance through San Diego that the Mexican government has had its attention called to it."

THIS IS THE IRON AGE. Splendid Outlook for the Industry

Splendid Outlook for the Industry for Years to Come.

Bellefonte, Pa., Sept. 30.—The bright outlook in the iron industry, which is an important factor in the prosperity of central Pennsylvania, has brought out some interesting figures from J. W. Gephard. He is superintendent of the Valentine Iron Company and of the Central Railroad of Pennsylvamia. Until recently he was Ex-Governor Beaver's law partner. Mr. Gephard says:

"The iron trade has struck an advance to stay. It was at its lowest ebb when the many new changes caused a suddenly increased demand for iron. The railroads replacing bridges with plate girder structural iron to withstand the weight of heavier trains and cars of larger capacity; the replacing of worn-out rails; the building of new and larger cars to replace the stock that has been allowed to run down in the past two years; the building of so much electric railway, as well as the erection of so many buildings with structural iron all over the world, are some of the most complete reasings why the iron industry will be kept up for an indefinite number of years, and that at good prices, too.

"Over 200,000 cars will be needed by the railroads in the next two years."
